Tempers ran almost as hot as the loveless Mississippi summer sun at the Hancock County Board of Education meeting at Kiln Tuesday evening when residents from the Ansley-Lakeshore and Pearlington areas showed up to tell board members they were against the proposed revision of existing school districts. Ansley-resident Chris Ladner presented the board with a petition signed by about 360 people that said "We, the citizens of the Ansley-Lakeshore and surrounding communities, do opposé the changing of the school district boundary lines and the transferring of our children (from Gulfview Elementary) to the Charles B. Murphy Elementary School."

Pearlington residents also showed up to find out if there were truth to rumors that Charles B. Murphy Elementary would be closed if Gulfview students weren't sent there.

The board and Superintendent of Education Mike Ladner had previously directed Assistant Superintendent Eddie Danzey to examine some

City schools want more of tax revenue; county seeks less

BY GEOFF BELCHER News Editor

It's tax time again -- school tax, that is. Both the Hancock County and Bay St. Louis-Waveland school districts have slated public hearings for June 27 to discuss their respective proposed budgets and their respective share of the ad valorem tax pie. This time around, the city schools want a bigger piece; the county schools, a smaller one.

The Bay-Waveland district is now operating with a $9,218,755 total budget. $3,616,01 of that revenue comes from ad valorem taxes.

For the next fiscal year, the city school district's proposed budget has a total projected revenue of $9,611,350. $3,879,643 of that money is expected to be financed through a total ad val-

The American Cancer Society's Relay for Life is all set to go on Friday night at the Hancock County Walking Track.

A lot of preparations have taken place for this fund

Friday night beginning at 6 p.m. will be the gathering of some 30 teams who will be participating in the 12hour event at the Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center.

Special activities will begin at 6 p.m. with a reception for cancer survivors and a victory lap set for 7 p.m.

The highlight of the night will take place at 9:30 p.m. when the track will be circled by luminary bags.

Teams will have stations along the track for the night of walking to help raise funds for the Cancer Society.

The general public is invited and encouraged to come and attend this big event.

We hope to see you Friday night at the Relay for Life at the Walking Track.

Randy and I participated in the 134th annual Convention of the Mississippi Press Association held at the Grand Casino's Bayview Hotel in Biloxi.

As always, it was good to get together with newspaper folks from across the state. There are still a few of them left whom I met at the first convention I attended in 1958.

We had several very good work sessions and times of enjoyment, too.

Saturday evening we had a Sunset Schooner Cruise in the Sound.

I even took the wheel for about and hour or so, which was the first time for me. The old "Biloxi" type schooner is a very interesting boat, and at the beginning of the last century hundreds worked the Sound shrimping, fishing and oystering.

mayor and chiefs of the fire and police department, only minutes after City Council gave them the authority to take such a step. Some officials think the city of Waveland will follow suit with a ban.

Fire Chief Bobby Gavagnie said under normal circumstances, sale and discharge of fireworks would have been allowed 10 days prior to the Fourth of July holiday, or as of this Saturday.

But officials made their temporary ban effective as of Saturday, and until further notice. They made no exception for Casino Magic's traditional fireworks extravaganza, and officials there said they could ing good," Favre said. totals for the year 2000 is approximately 25 inches below normal."

The fire chief said the option of allowing fireworks only on the beaches, and discharged toward the water only, "would or could present serious enforcement problems." And the third option, allowing the discharge of fireworks as normal throughout the city, he said "could create serious public safety and/or liability problems," Gavagnie added.

He and Mayor Eddie Favre held out very little hope that the area would receive enough rain before the holiday to lift the fireworks ban. "It's not lookrain in the next few days, he said, it wouldn't be sufficient to reverse the severe drought and

Casino Magic officials had told council members on At the present time, our rainfall Monday that they've already signed a contract for their Fourth of July fireworks display, which draws hundreds to the Cedar Point area. They stressed that safety is their main concern, but suggested that the casino could have the display pointed only toward the water, and hire extra workers to be on alert in case of fire. Gavagnie said that's been the case for the past couple of years. "My big concern is if it sets the marsh on fire, we could burn all the way to Engman Avenue. It could be a nightmare," said the chief.

Magic officials said they understood the city's position, and asked only that the city give the casino as much notice as possible to allow rescheduling the event.

When the matter came up on Tuesday, council agreed to let the mayor and his chiefs make the call. Council member Tad Black said that decision should apply to the casino as well as citizens, however. "If we allow Casino Magic to have fireworks, but not our citizens, that wouldn't be fair," said Black "I just feel strongly that if we do it for one we should do it

Favre said any display by Casino Magic would have to be "very controlled," while individuals shoot fireworks "up and down every street."

He did not, however, push to allow the Magic display, and included the casino in the ban later in the evening.

Gavagnie said he had already pulled the casino's permit for the display. "There will be no fireworks unless the weather and drought change," said the chief, "within the corporate limits of Bay St. Louis." Gavagnie also said he is not issuing any permits allowing rubbish burns in the city limits.

Gavagnie said the fireworks ban is the first such in the city's recent history.

Bay Council agreed, and Gavagnie has a notice in today's Echo notifying citizens

In Waveland, the sale and use of fireworks is also prohibited until further notice.

Fire Chief David Garcia said from June 24 until July 4, the his department is monitoring sale, discharge and/or use of the situation on a day-to-day basis and he may re-evaluate his decision on Friday.

Gavagnie told the Echo he hoped the Bay received a nice, soaking rain before the Fourth of July holidays so he could lift the ban. But, he said the ban was necessary now to protect

"One part of the puzzle is to reduce the waste stream," said Pullman. "And, to do that, people need to know where, when and how they can recycle materials. With grant assistance, we are taking that first step."

Chamberlain also received supervisors' approval to submit an application for a $70,000 environmental grant from Wal-Mart. She explained that the initial round of funding for projects passed in February, but some funding might still be available. The grant, if approved, would be used to purchase 60 filler water hydrants and 40 three-way hydrants for the Pearlington water supply.

The Pearlington Water and Sewer District would still have to pay for installation of the hydrants, she said.

NOTICE OF THE AVAILABILITY OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT

The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from Standard Dedeaux Water Association. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, rural Utilities Service has prepared an Environmental Assessment that evaluated the potential environmental effects and consequences of the proposed project. This notice announces the availability of the Environmental Assessment fro public

The proposed project is intended to provide a clean, safe and sanitary water supply to the households of the area. The project area will cover the Northeast and Central part of Hancock County and part of the upper Northwest Harrison County. The proposed project will include the conversion of 1.5 acres of land fro the necessary well and tanks.

Alternatives to the proposed project include only not to construct the water system. However, without the proposed project, the existing residents will continue to rely upon individual water wells. Most of these well produce water of poor quality. The proposed community water system will provide a better source of fire protection which can be utilized by the local voluntary fire department. "Filler-valves" will be installed in the area to fill fire department tanker trucks in events of emergency.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available fro review at U.S. Department of Agriculture, Rural Development, 132 Mayfair Rd., Suite C, Hattiesburg MS 39402. For further information contact Robert W. Windham, Rural Development Specialist, at 601-261-3293. Legislature is not the largest in the South - Georgia's is by a lot but it's above the average.

Most Southern states seem to have a norm of around 100 members in the House and around 48 in the Senate. Tennessee, Alabama, South Carolina and Louisiana - all larger states - have smaller legislative bodies than Mississippi. Arkansas, about the same as us population-wise, has a much smaller legislature.

Voter indignation over the recent session-end retirement goodies lawmakers gave themselves has brought greater public scrutiny of the Legislature than I can ever remember, including questions over the size of the Legislature.

However, the mere suggestion to several lawmakers I've talked with that they could possibly reduce the Legislature's size by about 25 seats has brought all sorts of negative reaction, starting with the problem of getting it pre-cleared by the Justice Department.

Plus, black lawmakers can be counted on to automatically oppose any idea of tinkering with the number of legislative seats they now have - 33 in the House, 10 in the Senate - out of fear their long-denied voice in state governmental affairs might be weakened.

So there you have it; Little to no chance Mississippi lawmakers will vote themselves or their buddies out of a job.

These scam artists advertise in the classified sections of newspapers and offer - for a fee - to help job seekers find and apply for federal jobs. Some fraudulent companies even try to confuse consumers by using names that sound like those of federal agencies, like the "U.S. for Career Agency Advancement" or the "Postal Employment Service. "

Fraudsters may lie about the availability of federal job openings in your area. For example, the Postal Service has few vacancies for career positions, and for many of the entry-level jobs, you must take a written examination.

Postal Service hiring takes place at the local level through 85 district offices. If someone tells you that postal jobs are available, check with the Postal Service to determine if hiring is taking place and if an exam is required for eligibility.

potential option for redrawing the school districts to accommodate uneven growth in different areas of the county.

Due to increasing population in the Gulfview school area, President Cheryl Bennett said, that school is nearing its capacity with 600 students next school year, while Pearlington, with a projectedenrollment of only 142 students for the 2000-2001 school year, will be operating at only halfcapacity.

And by operating at only half-capacity, she said, Pearlington's students aren't getting the same educational benefits enjoyed by those at the larger schools because Murphy doesn't get as many funds -and therefore, not as many programs or teachers-per-student. Among possible solutions, Danzey told board members, would be to send some students from Gulfview to Murphy, at an approximate annual cost of $69,000.

DON'T WAIT!

"If you're talking about moving kids to Pearlington," Hill said, "It isn't going to work any way, because I'm looking for Pearlington to grow."

Bennett told the audience that moving children from one school to another would be regrettable, but unfortunately, it may become necessary.

"We have over the years been reactive and not proactive in building ...," Bennett said. "We're going to get to a point in the next few years where we're not going to be able to build on (Gulfview's) campus to accommodate more growth."

Bennett, Peterson and the superintendent all assured Pearlington residents that no one had discussed closing Charles B. Murphy school, and that is not an option that would be even remotely considered/at the moment.

Board member Tony Caston suggested drawing up a redistricting plan merely as a contingency in case current trends continue, but not acting on the plan until absolutely necessary. In the meantime, he said, the plan could be publicized to let people in the affected areas know what's going on and what could possibly happen at some point down the road - but not

"I think basically, things are okay as they are right now," Ansley-Lakeshore residents Mike Ladner said yesterday, "but we certainly do need to look at the long-term. I think any decision made would have to be made in the long-term, not the short-term."

The board took no action on the matter, but may schedule public hearings at a later date to get additional input from the go to Pearlington, we'd move to affected communities, Ladner

Meanwhile, Ward 2 council Discussion of the downtown Superintendent Dr. Kim Stasny lion in bonding for construction stressed yesterday that the district board of trustees is not asking for a tax increase, just a bigger share of tax revenues already collected.

"We're just asking the city to give us seven percent more over what we got last year," Stasny said. "That's to assist in the opening of the new middle school. ... Ad valorem is the money that the city or local governing agency provides to the city or county school district for operating expenses."

The county school district has proposed a budget decrease from last year, down to $33,975,156. The decrease is possible because in the last school year, the district had projects that have now been completed; and because of additional revenue brought into the county through industrial, commercial and population growth. In all, the district expects to draw an additional half million dollars in ad valorem revenue with no tax increase, and plans to use the additional funds to add employees and operate the new middle

Hancock Library wins public relations award

The Hancock County Library System was recently presented the Public Relations Award from the Mississippi Library Association.

Each year the Mississippi Library Association presents a Public Relations Award for the "best effort by an individual library to publicize library services around a single theme or event"

This year's award went to the Hancock County Library System's annual Holiday Tree Gala.

"We feel our Holiday Tree Gala has helped to return the spirit of community during the holiday season," said Prima Plauché, library system director, "and we are proud to have received recognition for this event."
